

Bonaly Cooking Competition

Working in teams of up to six, Scouts have to cook a three-course meal on alter fires. We will be judging the quality of the food, understanding of healthy eating and camp craft.

Programme – Saturday 29th April 2023

10:15	Flag Break and introduction to the day.
10:30	Start time.
13:00	All the teams will eat at the tables provided in the marquee. This is when the judges will come round and taste your food.
13:30	Clear your site and washing up, further judgment will be made on the cleanliness of the site after use.
14:30	Announcement of the winners.
15:00	Flag down and departure.

Costs

The entry cost per team of up to six Scouts is £30.

How to book & pay

Please complete the booking form request and return it to events@bonaly.org.uk We will then contact you with your unique booking reference and you can pay by BACS or by cheque.

What you need to bring

Each group needs to bring their food, cooking and eating utensils, washing up kit and some type of shelter in case it rains. Some spare equipment is available, but supplies are limited so make sure you try and bring everything you will need. Alter fires and wood will be supplied by Bonaly.

Competition Rules

Working in teams of up to six, Scouts have to cook a three-course meal on alter fires. You are allowed to bring pot, pans and cooking utensils; however, our judges will be particularly impressed with backwoods cooking techniques. Each team must plan their own menu and produce a shopping list for ingredients. The budget is £3.50 per person.

Judging

We will be judging the quality of the food, understanding of allergens, healthy eating and food hygiene. Also, camp craft, clean-up and LNT (Leave No Trace). "Our judges will be particularly impressed by teams using Backwoods cooking techniques."

Good Luck 😊
